

HOME 185 / 8208 VALHALLA DRIVE / WARD-YOUNG ARCHITECTURE / SETTER CONSTRUCTION

The morning sun is two fingers above Lookout Mountain and you're shuffling your way from bed to coffee when you stop along the bridge overlooking the living room with soaring Weiland sliding doors. Below, the kitchen's alder cabinets radiate and the dining nook is hosting two robed early birds engaged in a hushed chat, a thin cloud of steam rising from their mugs. This Custom Estate Home is where people effortlessly gather, sometimes in small settings and other times in sizable numbers on the mid-level decks beyond the living room or on the ground floor, where a covered patio, fire pit and over-sized hot tub are all just steps from the forest as well as the home's separate wing with bunk room and its own living room.

Beyond its bold, classic, Tahoe lodge exterior of cedar and stone are 5 beds, 5.5 baths and 5,417 square feet of entertainment. There's a rock-walled dining room with wine cellar, an office and loft, walnut floors, granite counters, mud and ski boot room, built-in barbecue and appliances that include the likes of Wolf and Sub-Zero. Mostly, however, there's an abundance of character and light and all the other not-so-intangibles that make this three-tiered home ideal for family feasts, celebrations, Super Bowl Sundays and other forms of entertainment that are anything but modest.
